

Why do Swiss people start their own businesses, why do these businesses stay here and why do foreign companies come to Switzerland? As different as the businesses themselves—large, small, national and international—are the answers to these questions. This is why communication between people and the world of business is important. Because the economy is all of us. The economy is jobs, quality of life, and liberties. economiesuisse is proposing a number of initiatives to stimulate the dialog about the economy and, at the same time, learn what's on people's minds.
